ELECTION & TOWN MEETING RESULTS

The voting season in Brentwood is over. There were some very impassioned opinions leading up to election and Town Meeting days. I am a strong believer in getting involved. Thanks to all who took the time to learn about the issues, ask questions, talk to candidates, come out on a snowy day to cast your ballot, and spend half of your Saturday discussing and voting on issues that will impact you and your neighbors for years to come. Many elected positions go unopposed. If you feel you would well represent town residents, consider running for office next year. At the least, perhaps sit in on a Selectmen's meeting or other committee meeting to learn more about the process.

Elections: We have two first-time selectmen representing us: Phyllis Thompson and Bill Faria. Other results were Richard Chamberlain, Moderator; Daphne Woss, Town Clerk/Tax Collector; Melinda Nordell and Linda MacDonald, Supervisors of the Checklist; David Menter, Cemetery Trustee; Keith Levitsky and Liz Faria, Budget Committee; Julie Avant, Trustee of the Trust Funds; Stephen Hamilton and Mark Kennedy, Planning Board; Tracy Waldron and Liz McConnell, Library Trustees. The full list of each board and committee can be found on the town website at www.brentwoodnh.gov.

Swasey School Elections: Scott Dennehy and Thad Riley were elected to the Swasey School Board. Also elected were John Mitchell as Treasurer, Phyllis Thompson as Clerk, and Doug Cowie as Moderator.

Ballot Questions: Brentwood did not have an open seat on the cooperative board this year, but you may see the results at www.brentwoodnh.gov.

The ballot questions, in town and in the district were as follows:

- CMS bond failed in Brentwood and failed overall.
- CMS Operating budget failed in Brentwood, but passed overall.
- CMS Collective Bargaining Agreement passed in Brentwood and passed overall.
- EHS Turf replacement failed in Brentwood, but passed overall.

The zoning amendment to include non-permanent structures in the property development standards passed.

Town Meeting: 24 Warrant Articles were discussed and voted on at Town Meeting. Following are the results:

- The article to allow Keno was tabled to next year.
- General Municipal Operations: Was amended to include $23,630, with the intent of the voters to have those funds added to the salary of Wayne Robinson, Road Agent. The total town operating budget passed was $3,865,776.

Public Access for Brentwood

Please join a Brentwood Study Group to investigate the plausibility of having all Selectboard public meetings available in some format for Brentwood residents to access the proceedings anytime - anywhere.

Robert Glowacky, Peter Foster and Selectboard member Andrew Artimovich are requesting other Brentwood residents to participate in a feasibility study to find an affordable way to film and publish the Board's proceedings.

You need not be a computer wizard or have a film background to participate, just an interest in searching out information from other towns and canvassing what Brentwood residents need and want with respect to having public sessions available to keep in touch if unable to attend the weekly meetings or find the minutes insufficient to keep informed.

Please contact Peter Foster: peterandrebeccafoster@gmail.com or call 603-512-9531 with any questions or to sign up to participate.

April's Documentaries at the Library

April 2nd @ 6 pm: The Age of Consequences. This documentary examines the immigration crises as it is accentuated by climate change. So many people, so little arable land, so much need.

April 16th @ 6 pm: Lost Boundaries. A film about a Portsmouth, New Hampshire doctor who is "passing" for white and the consequences when his ancestry is discovered. It is actually not a documentary, but a fictionalized true story filmed in the 1940s. With a very young looking (and handsome) Mel Ferrer as the doctor and some very attractive cinematography and views of our state.

Brentwood Conservation Commission

The Conservation Commission is currently looking for members and alternate members. Join us in our efforts to protect and preserve Brentwood's natural resources.

The Conservation Commission has two broad responsibilities. We evaluate and make recommendations to the New Hampshire Department of Environmental Services (NH DES) on permit applications for work in or near wetlands. We also make recommendations to the Planning Board or Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) on matters pertaining to wetlands or water-related zoning overlay districts and site plan reviews.

The Conservation Commission also works with landowners in town to encourage and facilitate the preservation of open space through conservation easements. Conserving land can provide a lot of benefits to the town. It helps to protect our drinking water, maintains beautiful spaces for the public to enjoy, ensures sufficient habitat for native wildlife, provides opportunities for outdoor recreation, keeps farmland available to feed the community, and perpetuates the rural feel of the town. The Commission is also responsible for the oversight, annual monitoring, and enforcement of those conservation easements held by the Town.

The Commission spearheads efforts to keep Brentwood beautiful and its water clean. We have completed projects to improve stormwater management on the Exeter River, initiated a water quality survey of the town's rivers, manage an annual roadside clean-up day, and are currently working with the Trails Committee to improve the trails on town-owned land.

If you'd like to support this important work, please consider joining the Conservation Commission. We meet the second Wednesday of every month at 7 pm at the Town Office. To learn more, email conservation@brentwoodnh.gov or call Jeff Donald at 793-9768. The public is welcome to attend Conservation Commission meetings.

Gardeners Will Focus on Gourd Raising and Decoration

The Brentwood Gardeners will meet Tuesday, April 17, at 7 pm at the Pilgrim Church on Middle Road. The guest speaker will be Leah Reed, Gourd Artist, Teacher and Art Supply Retailer. She will talk about raising gourds and the many ways of using them and decorating with them, going "from vine to design." She has an extensive website, www.bluewhalearts.com. Her business, Blue Whale Arts, is on Jenness Road in Epping. She is a national award-winning gourd artist. Although initially self-taught, she has studied with nationally renowned artists. She will bring many items and materials to show.

Gardeners' meetings and programs are open to friends and guests. For more information about the group, please contact one of the co-presidents, Torie Freeman, 778-3747, torielfreeman1@gmail.com, or Linda Rousseau, 772-4534, lindarou@comcast.net.

Cookie Sales Success

Brentwood Brownie Troop #51211 would like to thank the residents of Brentwood for supporting their 2018 cookie sales campaign!

The Brownies developed their business sense, sharpened their math skills, tested their fortitude while selling outdoors in some very cold winter weather, and had a whole lot of fun while raising money to go camping. The girls not only met, but exceeded their goals for this year thanks in large part to your generosity. With a commitment to service, these 3rd graders also gathered enough donations to purchase 38 boxes of cookies to hand out to soldiers coming through Pease airport on their way to Afghanistan.

Special thanks to Brentwood Country Store, Lowe's, and Walmart for providing the girls with space to set up their sales booth.

Kathleen Kelley and Julie Morrow for Brownie Troop #51211

Historical Society to Host New Program

"The Conservation Story in Brentwood" The Brentwood Historical Society will sponsor an evening devoted to a subject it has never focused on before: "The Conservation Story in Brentwood." It will take place on Thursday evening, April 12th, at 7 pm at the Historical Society Museum.

Douglas Cowie, who has served in several town positions as well as almost all the conservation projects, will lead the audience in looking back on the many aspects of the movement – the trials and tribulations as well as triumphs and accomplishments. He will mention two families who have made especially significant contributions in this area. Members of those families will be present, and will be encouraged to confirm or fill in the details. Other residents in the audience will also be welcome to add to the story.

In the late 1970s and early 1980s, Brentwood residents felt like dutiful and righteous citizens when they took their loads of trash and garbage to the town dump. Soon they were feeling confused and discomfited by new words and phrases – hazardous waste, recycling, waste stream, biodegradable, and before long – land management, conservation easements, setbacks, buffer zones, lot size by soil type. The era of conservation crept in slowly, but steadily. Some people wanted nothing to do with it, others have worked long and hard to make those new words and concepts a natural part of town life today. The April 12 program will recap the work of the past thirty years.

The Brentwood Historical Society Museum is located at 140 Crawley Falls Road. This program is free and open to the public. For driving directions and other information about the Historical Society, please visit www.brentwoodnhhistory.org, or contact the president, Rebecca Dunham, 642-3912.

Warrant article 16 was withdrawn for erroneous language.

These five warrant articles failed: command vehicle for the fire department, donation to Chase Home, donation to Samaritans, proposal for a full time police chief and offshore wind recommendation.

Following are the increases as a result of ballot votes and approvals at Town Meeting:

Swasey Operating Budget $.06
Swasey Teacher contract $.15
Town Operating Budget $.647
Town Warrant articles $.0094
Cooperative Operating Budget $.85
Cooperative Paraprofessional contract $.05

That adds up to $1.75 per $1,000 home value. For a home valued at $350,000 there will be an increase of approximately $612 over last year's tax bill.

Michelle Siudut

Following the election held on March 13th, two new members were elected to the Select Board. From left to right: Joyce Gallant, Assistant Town Treasurer, Phyllis Thompson (newly elected), Andrew Artimovich, Robert Mantagari (Chair), David Menter, and William Faria (newly elected).

Letters to the Community

Austin 17 House

On Sunday, 1 April, Austin 17 House, 263 Rte. 125 in Brentwood, NH, will host a delicious Pancake Breakfast in support of a project to renovate a dance room for area youth. This Eagle Scout project is being led by Parker Stead, a Life Scout of Boy Scout Troop 185. Parker's Eagle Scout dance room renovation project will help Austin 17 House, a non-profit child and teen organization in Brentwood that works to build an atmosphere of fun and self-acceptance, for the purpose of creating stronger community through collaboration, stronger leaders through mentorship and stronger families through education and support.

Parker is working diligently to renovate a dance room for the children and teens of Austin 17 House to give them extra opportunities to learn more about the benefits of dance, fitness, flexibility, and working together to reach a final goal. According to Parker, "I believe giving Austin 17 House the ability to introduce new programs into their organization will attract more kids that Austin 17 House has already graciously given to so many other teens. I could have done any other Eagle Project I wanted but realizing what Austin 17 House is doing for the community gave me a sense of a mission to help them in any way I can. I've been dedicating all of my time recently to complete this project, but every project comes at a price."

To raise the $850.00 price tag for this project, Parker and Austin 17 House will be co-hosting a Pancake Breakfast on April 1st, 2018 from 8-11 am. The menu will include pancakes, bacon, coffee, juice, and fruit. Austin 17 House is located at 263 Route 125 in Brentwood, NH (across from Bessie's Lunch). Editor's Note: Due to a typographical error, Warrant Article 16, to fund HAVEN in the amount of $3,050, was technically disqualified from voter consideration at the 2018 Brentwood Town Meeting.

HAVEN asked to present this information about their organization so that you may better understand what they do.

The Brentwood Newsletter does not endorse, nor advocate for any charitable organization.

HAVEN

For the past several months we have listened and watched as countless women and men have found the courage and bravery to share their stories of abuse and speak their truth. The #metoo movement was born and in December 2017, Time Magazine named "The Silence Breakers" Person of the Year. There is no escaping the reality that sexual and domestic violence is widespread and that it thrives in silence.

As the largest violence prevention and support service agency in New Hampshire, serving 48 cities and towns with a population of nearly 400,000, HAVEN is well versed on the pervasiveness of sexual and domestic violence, its root causes and its damaging effects. Our mission is to prevent sexual assault, domestic violence and stalking and to support and empower women, men, youth and families to heal from abuse and rebuild their lives.

Unlike most nonprofits, HAVEN's operations don't close at five o'clock: our crisis hotline never goes to voicemail and our trained staff and volunteers are available whenever and wherever a crisis arises. We do this for our neighbors as well as yours, for coworkers and relatives, adults and children.

In 2017, HAVEN provided support services to 17 Brentwood residents. The cost to deliver these services was $5,940. HAVEN humbly asks that you consider the impact this violence is having in your community and donate to HAVEN today. Together, we can End Violence and Change Lives. We are a registered 501(C)3 – tax id 02-0337620 – all donations are tax deductible. Learn more at www.havennh.org.

The Story Corner

This story was published in the Winter 2017-2018 Brentwood Historical Society's newsletter. If you are not already a member, contact them today and join them as they preserve our town's past.

The Legend of Brentwood's Four-Ox Bog

This story was passed on to me in August, 2017, by Rita Guarino, of Keene. Rita and Tony Guarino lived with their five children on Pickpocket Road for over 30 years, beginning in the 1970s. She wrote many articles for the Brentwood Newsletter. Her daughter Michelle married John Kareckas, a civil engineer who has worked all over the Seacoast and is deeply interested in New England history. Here is the story, in Jack Kareckas' words. Linda Rousseau

I was told this story in 1974 by Lawrence Lyford while working with a survey crew on Alice Tonry's subdivision along Middle Road, opposite Prescott Road in Brentwood.

Lawrence happened to be driving by as we were traversing the bog, which is now one of the subdivision access roads [Bartlett Road]. He stopped and inquired, "Do you know you are crossing Four-Ox Bog?" Our party chief at the time, Bob Lessard, who grew up in Exeter, said he hadn't heard the legend.

As Lawrence went on, he explained that on the other side of the bog, not a very long distance, probably 100 feet or so, was one of the finest growing stands of Eastern White Pine in New Hampshire. Back in the day, loggers were setting out to harvest these magnificent trees, which had annual rings about 1/4-inch thick – meaning they really put on some wood every year and grew to tremendous heights.

We were crossing in winter, about the same time of year as the loggers of long ago. I guess they waited until the ground froze to make the crossing with their animals. There tragedy struck. The ground wasn't frozen enough to bear the weight of the oxen. They broke through and wallowed in the muck. Being much younger then, I thought [Lawrence meant] the oxen went in deep, like in quicksand. This was not the case. They went in up to their bellies and were stuck in the mud, not able to go either forward or backward.

Now today, if we have a two-wheel drive and get stuck, [we would think] perhaps a four-wheel drive could pull us out. If we have a four-wheel drive stuck, we would need more like a four-wheel plus a winch to get unstuck. A yoke of oxen was the biggest thing they had, and I guess they tried with another team, which also got stuck. Thus the loggers had to face losing their means of making a living, and could likely have been bankrupted, as the cost of oxen replacement may have exceeded their available funds. I don't know the results, as Lawrence only shared the tragedy of the loss of the animals. I can only imagine the overall effect on the families.

Over the years, when traveling Routes 125 or 111-A, I've thought of this tale and viewed it as an isolated case for that particular piece of land. Lately I've been working in Kingston, replacing a road culvert near the North Danville and Fremont town lines. Not familiar with the local terrain along the river through West Brentwood and Fremont, I never extrapolated tree growth toward these areas west of 125. The area along the Exeter River in these towns is one of tremendous White Pine yield and was central to the mast tree selection of the mid-1700s for the King's Navy.

There are historic markers in Fremont along Route 107 calling attention to the Mast Tree Riot where the locals, dressed as Indians, stood up to the Royal Surveyor and crew, who were trying to sequester the larger trees and logs. It was this marker, and the residual pines, which brought back the memory of Lawrence Lyford's tale of the four oxen lost.

Alex Marcoux with a pair of working steers, shows that the craft of training and using animal power has not faded into history.
